Acrylic Surface.

The Acrylic face material used by Whiteboards R Us, is a surface that is pre painted, it is coated in a similar way to colourbond steel.

It is essentially a painted surface, therefore, slightly porous, as such whiteboard markers tend to ‘bleed’ below the surface. This is not a problem, but it means the board will require much more cleaning.

If written information is left on the surface for extended periods, it will leave a ghost residue.

Usually what happens with this surface if used in a large organisation is that no one takes the responsibility of maintaining the board, and eventually the surface begins to stain heavily, and will not clean thereafter.

This surface is recommended for small office environments where there are one or two people responsible for the care of the board and low usage. As the Acrylic sheet is a more cost effective offer, we generally only use it to apply printed skins over the top of this surface.

Please note that Acrylic writing surface is not recommend for use in schools or high frequency usage. If used in these environments, Whiteboards R US will not offer any warranty on this writing surface.
